

Curriculum Vitae Polychronis Kostoulas

Dr. Polychronis Kostoulas specializes in Public Health Epidemiology with profound expertise in Bayesian methods and recently Deep Learning algorithms.

His research primarily focuses on the development and application of innovative approaches for diagnostic test evaluation, true disease prevalence estimation, confidence in disease absence and the establishment of early warning systems for epidemics.

Dr. Kostoulas has contributed to over 140 peer-reviewed publications (Google Scholar) and played a pivotal role in 22 international research projects, notably coordinating or leading nine significant projects